1. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

Claim 14 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter.

Apparatus claim 14 is merely corresponding to original method claim 1 which is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 (Paper mailed 5/23/05). The instant claim recites a system for performing a mathematical function. The claim merely solves a problem without any limitation to a practical application. The claim recites means plus functions to perform data. The data is merely inputted to the system and then outputted. Moreover, the instant system does not provide any specific elements to perform the function(s). The apparatus claim does not recite a specific machine, i.e., see applicants' remarks (Page 8, "[s]econd, it is respectfully submitted that claim 14 recites a "machine" within the meaning of the statute. The claim recites a number of different elements that are set forth in means-plus-function format, e.g. "means for buffering," "means for aligning," "means for performing convolution sums," etc. Each of these means reads, for example, on the CPU 112 as it executes respective sets of instructions stored in the RAM 118 for performing the recited functions". Instead, it is recited that a non-specific machine accomplishes the manipulation of data, the data having no pre-or post-computer use.

However, in order for such a claimed computer-related process to be statutory, the claim must include either a feature that results: (1) in a physical transformation outside the computer, (2) in a limitation to a practical application, or (3) specific machine/element(s). Accordingly, claim 14 is clearly directed to a non-statutory process.

2. Claim 14 would be allowable if rewritten or amended to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 101, set forth in this Office action.

3. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: the recorded references do NOT teach or suggest the detail steps/ hardware feature as recited in independent claims.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."

4. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
